

Field Technicians, Portland and Seattle/Tacoma

WillametteCRA is accepting resumes/cv from archaeologists to join our roster for the 2023 field season and beyond. An ideal candidate is dependable, motivated, a clear communicator, thoughtful in the work they produce, and thoughtfully assertive in the way they interact with others, including fellow crew, clients, and the public.

Primary duties include supporting our archaeology crews or leading small crews under the supervision of a field director during survey, testing, and data recovery excavations. Other duties may include laboratory and data entry office help, and field gear maintenance.

While we welcome applicants of all backgrounds and levels of experience, preferred qualifications include a bachelor's degree in anthropology/archaeology, completion of an archaeological field methods course and familiarity with industry-standard technology such as GPS.

The hourly wage for these positions is $26-28. WillametteCRA provides single occupancy lodging, per diem, a vehicle, and paid drive time for overnight projects away from our office. All staff accrue sick time.
